GIRL SCOUTS HONORED — Seven Medfield Girl

Scouts have earned the Scouts' Gold Award for their public-service projects. The recipients of the organization's highest award are Emily Cadman, Maya Kiel, Nicole Pflueger, Eleanor Pope, Erin Robartes, Siouxa Roode, and Megan Sano. For her winning project, Robartes created signage for the 66-acre Sawmill Brook Conservation Area in town, and then uploaded information about the location to the Friends of Medfield Forest and Trails website. Roode organized a gardening club for residents of a local nursing home, and Cadman and Pflueger worked to create a French and Spanish immersion club for elementary-school students.
